

Beyond the Book...

Title: Where's My Nose?

Author: Susan Ring

Summary: Baby looks everywhere for its nose. At the end of the book the baby looks into a mirror and finds its nose.

Before Reading...

- Sing: “Head, shoulders, toes and nose, toes and nose. Head, shoulders, toes and nose, toes and nose. Fingers, ears and eyes to close, Head, shoulders, toes and nose.” Sing as your child sits or lays on a blanket. As you sing, touch each body part.

During Reading...

- Ask your child, “Can you see your fingers?” and touch his/her fingers. “Can you see your toes?” and so on. Then ask, “Where are my fingers, toes, eyes, and nose?” and point them out to the baby.

After Reading...

- Sit with the baby on your lap. Hold a hand mirror and show baby the parts of his face.
- Play “Let’s look for your nose” Use words from the book: “on the floor”, “on the chair”, “under the couch”, “hold baby up high/down low”...add words like “behind, next to, in front of”...as you say the words, move the baby to each place.
